

I love the NJ do not call list. Telemarketers have no right to continually invade my life as they did before the do not call list.

I pay for my phone service so that I can choose to communicate with people I know, not to provide access to strangers who intend to invade my private life in the attempt to sell their goods. Advertisers do not have the absolute right to bombard me with phone calls everyday. Keep them out of my life and leave the NJ do not call list alone.

Sincerely,
Scott Bruton
